Course details

This creative, practical day will explore how real life can inspire the most fantastical of stories. Starting from situations and locations familiar to the young writers, we will add a dollop of magic and adventure. If an everyday wardrobe can lead to Narnia, where will the objects in their own lives take the students?

Guidance criteria for identifying participants:

- Pupils should be able to sustain their focus on writing.
- Pupils should enjoy using their imagination.
- Pupils should have an interest in writing for fun.

Course tutor

Elen Caldecott has written for children for over a decade. Her novel Operation Eiffel Tower was inspired by her own childhood experiences, plus a little wish-fulfilment. As well as writing drama, she writes detective fiction and fantasy fiction. She is an Associate Lecturer in Creative Writing at Bath Spa University. As well as writing, she enjoys walking her dog along the South West's beaches.

As a result of coming on the course you will have:

- Practised fantasy writing: creating fantastical worlds
- Had an opportunity to write and edit a brand new piece of work
- Shared that piece with an audience of peers
- Practised life writing: observing and reflecting on their own environment
- Been given advice on their writing by an experienced author
- Had fun!
